

Gill-Chin Lim Global Award

In recognition of Gill-Chin Lim's commitment to humanistic globalization, we seek nominees for the fourth Gill-Chin Lim Global Award. Humanistic globalization seeks to realize a civil society based on human values and the basic human needs essential to sustain a just society.

These human values are identified as: peace; love; justice; affluence and equality.

The basic human needs are: food; security; housing; health and education.

The personal qualities one needs in order to realize the ends of humanistic globalization are: 1) optimism and the determination to surmount all obstacles and threats to the attainment of these ends; 2) eagerness and openness to learn about other cultures and their ways of thinking; and 3) pursuit of education as the critical way to enable those around us to shed old behaviors and learn and practice needed reforms.

By participating in voluntary services and public decision-making (e.g., voting), we can act to contribute to needed reforms. By respecting each other and engaging people different from ourselves, we may learn from those differences and at the same time experience what we share in common – especially the basic human values and basic human needs.

The Award carries a cash grant of $10,000 supported by Dr. Gill-Chin Lim's family.
